

Pettibone Presented DDC Eagle

Jill Pettibone, Executive Director, DLA Business Systems Modernization (BSM) for Logistics Operations, was presented with the Defense Distribution Center (DDC) Eagle in recognition of her outstanding support to the DDC BSM process. Pettibone has been essential to DDC's successful progression through the BSM process to date.

Through the BSM strategy, DLA mission-critical legacy systems will be replaced with an enterprise business system based on commercially available off-the-shelf software. BSM will allow DLA and DDC to adopt proven and successful business practices used in the commercial marketplace.

Expected results include both improved DLA support to the warfighter and quick access to global inventories and industry surge capabilities to fully integrate customer and supplier information.

Pettibone was visiting DDC to ensure the best possible turnover with her successor, Chris Gallo. Pettibone retired in November 2001.

Jill Pettibone, DLA BSM Executive Director and Phyllis Campbell, DDC Deputy Commander.

Army DCSLOG Visits DDC/DDSP

On December 4, 2001, LTG Charles Mahan, Jr, USA, Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics (DCSLOG), visited Defense Distribution Center (DDC) for an update, a Business Systems Modernization (BSM) brief, and discussion of Army/DDC issues.

LTG Mahan was especially interested in the DDC stock positioning activities in support of Army customers.

The Strategic Distribution Management Initiative (SDMI), the DLA and US Transportation Command Partnership activities were also discussed.

LTG Mahan also toured the Defense Depot Susquehanna, PA (DDSP) Eastern Distribution Center. The Army DCSLOG advised that DLA's focus to the field serves the warfighter well.

⇨ LTG Mahan tours DDSP.

⇨ CAPT Chris McKelvey, DDSP Commander, briefs LTG Mahan about DDSP operations as BG James Pillsbury, DDC Commander, looks on.

