

Bring Your Child to Work Day

By Polly Charbonneau, DDC Command Affairs

Defense Distribution Center (DDC) and Defense Distribution Depot Susquehanna, PA (DDSP) participated in the national Bring Your Child to Work Day, April 25, 2002.

More than 75 staff members brought more than 80 children, grandchildren, nieces, nephews, and other relatives to work.

Activities included meeting the DDC Commander, BG James H. Pillsbury, USA, and the DDSP Commander, CAPT Chris McKelvey, SC, USN, and helping around the office.

The highlight of the day was the tour of the largest DoD distribution warehouse in the world, the DDSP Eastern Distribution Center. Terry Shickley, DDSP, led the enormous group from receiving to walk and pick to the air lines of communication area and the high rise.

"I am immensely proud of the work the DDC and DDSP staff do every day," BG Pillsbury told the children. "Your parents are heroes and I'm glad we have the opportunity to show you the excellent work they do every day."
