

DDCT Operation Paint Brush

PAINTING A BRIGHTER FUTURE FOR THE COMMUNITY, DDCT EMPLOYEES VOLUNTEER THEIR TIME FOR A GREAT CAUSE

By Stacy Umstead, DDC Command Affairs Office

On Saturday, May 31, 2003, approximately 20 employees of the Defense Distribution Depot Corpus Christi, Texas (DDCT), participated in a Corpus Christi city-wide community service program called "Operation Paint Brush."

"Operation Paint Brush" provides low-income elderly and handicapped homeowners assistance in getting their homes painted free of cost.

"What a great feeling you have knowing that you are making a difference in someone's life, and in the community, states, Robert Barrett, a Warehousing Specialist at DDCT."

DDCT employees made it a family event by inviting their family members to participate in the event. A paint splattered, DaShawn Johnson, the son of Ms Linda Moore, a Storage Section Supervisor at DDCT, reflects on the day's events, "There were enough brushes to go around, sharing this experience not only brings the community together, it brings the family together, I'm happy to be a part of such a great program."
